Nomination Overview: Do you know someone whose expertise, lived experience, community leadership, or systems knowledge could help advance equitable maternal and perinatal health outcomes in California? The California Perinatal Quality Collaborative (CA-PQC) invites you to nominate qualified individuals to apply for its Advisory Council. We are seeking 15–18 diverse advisors who reflect California’s communities, regions, and perinatal health needs.

Nominees may include clinical professionals, community care providers, doulas, community health workers, social workers, public health leaders, advocates, people with lived experience, quality improvement experts, funders, and leaders from community-based or social service organizations. We especially encourage nominations of individuals who serve or represent communities that have historically experienced inequities in maternal and perinatal health outcomes.

Applications close September 25, 2026 at 11 p.m. PST. If you have questions about the nomination or the PQC Advisory Council, please reach out to info@CaliforniaPQC.org.
